The large number of business men's associations that have come out for Low in the last few days has been augmented by the addition of the merchants of the metal and kindred trades. A large number of the metal men are members of the Fulton Club, at No. 83 Fulton-st., and are accustomed to gather in force there daily for luncheon. Sereno E. The registration indicates it. In Syracuse, Utica, Auburn and Rochester the large registration proves that a sweeping Republican victory is in sight. In my town, Auburn, the Democrats haven't taken much interest in the situation, so we will have a larger Republican majority there than usual. Wallace will be elected. The closing rally in the downtown business district of the foes of Tammany Hall and supporters of Seth Low as the candidate most likely to defeat Tammany, because most likely to carry the election of next Tuesday, will be held to-morrow beginning at 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon. It had been intended that the speaking should be from the Sub-Treasury steps; but permission to use that historic assembling-place could not be secured, so a speakers' stand is to be erected in Broad-st., just opposite the Sub-Treasury. J. Noble Hayes, of No. 120 Broadway, is chairman of the Committee of Arrangements for the meeting, which is to be held under the auspices of the Citizens Union. It had been originally expected that Joseph H. Choate would be one of the speakers, but the expectation could not be realized. Mayor Strong is to preside, and the speakers will be James C Carter, Charles S. Fairchild, Seth Low, C. C. Beaman and J. Kennedy Tod. The meeting was arranged in response to the following call, the signers of which, well-known bankers, brokers and men prominent in many lines of business, are to be vice-presidents of the meeting:

FORE THE PEOPLE. The City Vigilance League, by its City Campaign Committee, of which Thomas L. McClintock is chairman and A. W. Abbott is secretary, has sent copies of the following address to over five hundred clergymen of all denominations:

We therefore ask, that in your own way and as you think best, you use your influence as a minister and a citizen in placing in official power men who will run their offices for the city's welfare, and we urse upon you the benefits to be obtained to our city by the election of Seth Low as Mayor of the city of New-York, as constituted under the new charter.

For his election and for the continuance of a clean, businesslike municipal administration, may we not have your hearty support and co-operation?

FOR THE GOOD OF THE CAUSE. SCORES OF WORKINGMEN MAKE CONTRIBUTIONS

Speaking yesterday morning in regard to the great number of subscriptions to the campaign fund of the Citizens Union, Charles Stewart Smith said:

"The multitude of small subscriptions received has been one of the most gratifying things in the campaign, and points clearly to the great interest taken in the election by the real workingmen of the city. Many scores of laboring men have visited the committee's headquarters and expressed a desire to contribute something to the good of the cause, adding that they wished to see Seth Low elected. Many of them contributed adopted Seth Low. All the political parties or machines in this contest will be as nothing compared with the public, which is so unmistakably for Seth Low by every indication concerning which men accustomed to forecasting the politi-cal future can judge, and his triumphant elec-tion, therfore, seems to be as certain as any-thing in the future can be."

A FEW COLD FACTS.

STRONG SENTIMENT FOR MR. LOW IN MANY CALLINGS.

Fact No. 1-A man doing business in the lower part of New-York and living in Brooklyn makes this statement: "At the stable where I keep my horse there are ten Irishmen employed, and they tell me there that every one of them is a Low man. In my workshop, here in New-York, there are fourteen Democrats, and I have their assurance that they are all going to vote for Low. They have told me this voluntarily, after seeing me wearing a Low button. I cannot think that these are isolated instances. In neither case has the slightest pressure been brought to bear on the men by their employers. So it seems reaschable to me to suppose that there are many other like instances, and I am prepared for a landslide next Tuesday." Fact No. 2-A man who visited the Wallabout Market, in Brooklyn, yesterday, said afterward that he was simply astonished at the strength of the Low feeling. Practically the marketmen were all of one mird. "It was a complete revelation to me," he added. "In one establishment, where there are a hundred men employed, ninety-seven declared their intention of voting for Mr. Low. In fact, they are all going one way, simply because they believe that the Citizens candidate is the best man for the Citizens candidate is the best man for Mayor."

Fact No. 3—This is another straw from a livery stable. It is furnished by a well-known New-York business man. Said he: "I had occasion a day or two ago to talk over the telephone with the proprietor of the stable where I hire a carriage now and then. After our jusiness talk, he said to me: "Are you taking any interest in politics this year?" I told him that I was taking a good deal of interest. He is normally a Democrat, and I had no reason to suppose that he was not going to vote the regular Pemocratic ticket this year; but he astonished me by saying that he was going to vote for Low, and by further saying that all of the men in his employ were going to do the same thing. They are mostly frishmen and Democrats, I do not know just how many of them there are, but there are at least fifteen of twenty. I have full confidence in this man, and he had no reason for giving me this information because of anything I had said about my own feeling. I regard it as important, because If the men in one place of that kind are for Low it is natural to believe that the same my own feeling. During the last few days of a heated political ampaign, when men grow enthusiastic about their favorite candidate, buttons frequently indicate the direction of the sentiment. A button vender in front of The Tribune said yesterday that Low buttons were the best stock. "I sold forty-five Low buttons this morning," he said, "and only five or six others."

The popularity of Low buttons is not confined to any part of the city. A vender in front of one of the large drygoods stores in the shopping district said: "I sold on Wednesday, which was a good day, more Low buttons, five to one, than I did of any other kind."

The Rev. Dr. Lindsay Parker made a hit at a Low meeting Wednesday evening in the Johnston Building, Brooklyn, by his method of dealing with General Tracy.

An address was issued yesterday by one hundred and seventy-five Republicans, nearly all of whom are enrolled in the party organization, directed to the Republican voters of Brooklyn and appealing to them to vote for Low. Every ward in the city is represented in the list of names, which is attached to the appeal. Among the names are those of many men who have hitherto been claimed as supporters of General Tracy. Among them are Isaac H. Cary, Timothy Perry and E. Dwight Church, whose names have been used by the Republicans on their Finance Committee.

Less than ten days ago many of the men whose names appear on the address were supporting Tracy; but they have come out for Low, believing, as they say in the address, that "it will be Seth Low or Tammany."

WRIGHT NAILS A CAMPAIGN LIE. A PROMPT EXPOSURE OF AN ORGANIZATION TALE THAT A MAN WAS DISMISSED FROM BLACK-WELL'S ISLAND FOR NOT CONTRIB-UTING TO A LOW CLUB.

The Republican managers have from time to time tried to create a prejudice against Mr. Low by asserting that office-holders have been deposed because they would not support him for Mayor. Yesterday Mr. Quigg said that Thomas Quinn, a stableman in the employ of the Department of Charities on Blackwell's Island, was discharged on Charities on Blackweit's Island, was discharged on Thursday last for refusing to contribute to a Low campaign club. According to Mr. Quigg, Assistant Overseer Mack approached Quinn on October 8 and asked him to contribute to the funds of the Robert J. Wright Association. Quinn refused to do so, declaring that he was for Tracy, and if he had any money to contribute he would turn it over to the Republicans. His discharge followed. Mr. Quigg went on to say that he knew of five Republicans who had contributed to a Low fund because they were asked to do so, and in order to save their places.

were asked to do so, and in order to save their places.

Commissioner Wright of the Department of Charities, when he heard of Mr. Quigg's statement, told the facts about Quinn's discharge. "This," said Mr. Wright, "is a campaign lie, and Mr. Quigg knew it to be one when he issued the statement. Quinn was drunk for fifteen out of the sixteen months in which he was in the Department's employ, and only the entreaties of his wife and children and my sympathy for them kept him in the city's employ as long as he was. On October 18 he was reported drunk, and at my direction he was suspended pending investigation. I decided to dismiss him, but at his request asked for his resignation, as he said that to be dismissed would injure him, as he was applying to the Civil Service Commission for examination and appointment."
